A word from Bobby

It has been a long time since I visited the old camp meetings in different parts of Georgia. My first visit was to the old Indian Springs Camp meeting with Judge Bryant and Donna Culpepper. We had a wonderful time with excellent preaching by Dr. Roy Lauter and a tasty home-made ice cream fellowship to follow. Next, I went to the Tattnal Camp Meeting where Rev. Wayne Mosley was preaching. It was a really hot July evening and the gnats were in full force. I had gotten there a little bit early so I was able to visit with the different people in their tents. I took my seat on the second row and was thanking God for the fans in the Tabernacle. A few minutes later, I looked to my right and a gentleman sat down beside me. I did not notice him at first and he did not notice me. With a second glance, I realized that I was sitting beside my old Sunday School teacher, Dr. George Barber, from Savannah, Georgia! My heart leaped for joy as I sat next to this man of God who sowed in my life! I forgot about how hot it was and I forgot about the gnats and I began to be thankful for the people who have invested into my life over the years. After the service we had a bowl of ice cream and a great reunion at his tent. He will be 90 years young on his next birthday and I do wish him a blessed birthday.

I also visited the Adrian Camp meeting with Rev. Denise Walton and Rev. Larry Rollins, who was preaching, I was greeted by so many sowers into my life and ministry that I was overwhelmed with gratitude for each of them. Unfortunately, they will never know how much their sacrifices of time, money and resources that helped to shape me has meant. I am eternally grateful to God and His sowers because I understand that, "No turtle sitting on a fence post got there by himself".

We have really been busy with helping the indigenous people on the continent of Africa! Dr. Michael Lolwerikoi of Kenya and Dr. Edward Enim of Ghana are diligently and continually working to place new water well systems for their communities. These works of God are not easy and it takes real love for your people as well as a serious commitment of time for completion. Recently, we received a request for a water well in the Democratic Republic of the Congo from the President of Kabongo Methodist University, Dr. Kimba Evasite and Dr. Wes Griffin of International Leadership Institution. Dr. Tina Ramme of Harvard is helping to oversee a great work of God in Lerata Primary School where Nialla was badly mauled by a hyena. We are seeing God's miracles in the deserts of the overlooked, forgotten and the least.

Your gifts of love and money are causing waters of God to flow. I would especially like to thank the friends and partners of Unto the Least of His for your prayers and financial gifts that make these impossible works of God possible. Your gifts are making a difference in the lives of people who suffer hardships every day and they can and will not be able to say "thank you" for huge commitments of time, prayers and resources. On behalf of the indigenous people that we serve, I would like to put a big bear hug squeeze on each you because you are my heroes. Thank you and may God add His favor on you today!

Bishop Pablo Mora of Paraguay and Rev. Isaac Saldago, pastor of Hispanic ministries in the South GA conference, have extended another mission opportunity in South America. Rev. Isaac Saldago translated for Bishop Mora at the North and South GA UMC Pastors School at Epworth by the Sea, St. Simons Island.

We were delighted to host the Chamblee UMC youth group of Chamblee, GA in Wilkinson County. Youth Pastor Josh Gale and his group did some great Manna mission work and they concluded their experience by canoeing on the Oconee River.

Alan White and Lindsey Solomon, student pastors of Mt. Pisgah, and Tammy Roberson, program manager, helped lead another mission team to New Orleans, LA. We were able to bring hope and good news to the people that we served. We carried water under the Mississippi Bridge to the homeless and we helped in the restoration of a church and a displaced Katrina family.

Youth Pastor Robert Jones of Grace Church in Perry, GA took his group on another mission trip to Alajuela, Costa Rica. We helped lay the foundation of a local pastor's home and helped with their VBS in Rincon de Herrera. Rev. Dimas and Enny Alvarado have visited the USA on many occasions.
