A Word from Bobby

We love many of the young people in the African Church. The resilience of these beautiful people is totally astounding. These young people are committed to God, family, community and hard work. Their lack of money and worldly possessions does not diminish their understandings of God and the world. Our friend, Moses, from Northern Kenya, was influenced by the Christian leadership after his mother and father passed away. He was our interpreter and did a fantastic job. We were going to reward him for his labors and I asked him what he wanted for his services. He said, "I want a Bible like yours so that I can know God's word and become a pastor". He did get a Bible and much more. We know and have seen his world and I would like to thank you for being a blessing to him and others like him by providing Bibles and bikes to the indigenous church.

I love the African Church. Dr. Michael Lolwerikoi and I were worshiping in an indigenous church in Northern Kenya. The church got its start with a lady reading her Bible under a tree. Worshiping in Lbaa Lesukuta Church in Samburu, North Kenya with about 75 new converts was totally inspiring. Their little church may not ever make the headlines of earthly importance, but they are faithful in the small things. I know that God is going to be faithful with them.

The African church is beautiful! When I see the African people and their commitment to the global church, I see a people who are inspirational, innovators and motivators for a better today and tomorrow. They make do serving the Lord with gladness and thanksgiving in their heart with a historic understanding of God. Most of them can write and speak at least 2 or 3 languages and they are super interesting and intelligent. Many are materialistically impoverished, but they are spiritually blessed with an ability to worship. Sometimes, I wonder if prosperity has hindered our ability to love and worship God.

Safe clean drinking water is making a difference in the lives of people in Africa and around the world. Thank you Dr. Michael Lolwerikoi, Maasai Moran Warrior Dipa and Dr. Tina Ramme from Kenya and Dr. Kimba Evarisite and Paul and Marty Law from the Congo and Dr. Edward and Constance Enim from Ghana for your leadership in providing safe clean drinking water in Africa. Thank you Rev. Mike and Cindy Ricker for your work in India. You are the hands and feet of God for the overlooked people of the world. You are inspirational for us. We have 6 water well projects commissioned and a new water filtering project which we are learning about for the marginalized communities.

To our friends and partners of Unto the least of His, we thank God for each of you and we love you. You are the beloved of God and we are proud to be in ministry with you.

Peace and Blessings,
Bobby & Nancy Gale

Emily Clinic

Josena Clinic

Much progress has been made on the Clinics! What a blessing this gift from above will be! Thank you so much for your amazing gift, your prayers, and partnership. Thousands of lives will be saved by the gift of clean water, medicine and healthcare in this remote area of northern Kenya!

Marginalized communities in Winneba, Ghana are learning and using these water filtration filters. It is a way of giving people a drink of uncontaminated water.

This filter is amazing. It is great that dirty water can be cleaned and usable. We need this in Kenya.

This hydrogeologist is confirming water survey data by comparing with the previous data which was done in 2017. This is to make sure that when drilling starts the data is accurate to avoid any mistake that may arise.

Cape Good Hope Church, Ghana

We had a fantastic time with our friends in Ghana as we worshiped together. I was blessed by their leadership and excitement for Jesus. They may lack in material things, but they do not lack in their love for God.

Can you guess why these children are smiling? These beautiful children are smiling because they are happy! Their lives have been touched with hand-made articles of love. Children are beautiful around the world. (Ghana)
